Crafty Distillery

One of the rare gins in Scotland to be distilled with their own spirit, they take local wheat and water combine in their 7-day fermentation process to create maximum character and mouth feel. This process takes more time, energy, cost and know-how, but delivering a gin that lives up to the true meaning of 'craft' is essential. With local Noble Fir needles and Bladderwrack Seaweed, it leads with juniper and is balanced with hints of forest fir, tropical fruit, citrus spice, tangy sherbet and a subtle scent of the shore.

Distance from Culzean Castle to Prestwick Golf Club is 20 miles/ 32 km

Prestwick Golf Club

The Ayrshire course holds a special place in the golfing history books, having been the venue for the first-ever Open Championship back in 1860. It last staged an Open in 1925 but the Americans in particular love Prestwick and its often-unique test of golf. The first tee sits beside Prestwick Station and the railway line runs all the way down the right-hand side of the opening hole. There are plenty of other holes where a score can come off the tracks.

Dundonald Links

Opened in 2003, Kyle Phillips designed a modern-day classic links which has the feel of a course 100 years older and offers challenges and enjoyment in equal measure. This modern links is now recognised as one of Golf's "must play" destinations. The course is set up to provide a real test of golf for players of all abilities, with generous fairways and beautiful putting surfaces. Its coastal location allows golf to be played all year around with regular tees and fairways, no mats and no winter greens.
