Go Rural is a thriving community of Scotland's farmers and crofters who are passionate about producing the highest quality food and drink, and who are committed to caring for the environment and protecting Scotland's landscapes for everyone to enjoy responsibly.

We are a close-knit network of high quality agritourism businesses located throughout the Scottish countryside, who ensure visitors enjoy high quality and memorable experiences.

As well as running a tourism or leisure business we are all working farmers on real working farms. Look out for our "Go Rural" cow to signify you are on a real working farm.

We are all different. The people welcoming your clients on to Scottish farms are real characters, all unique with a different story to tell. We love a story and we don't mind sharing tales of our life and farming culture with your clients.

All of our farms are different. The type of food we produce is determined by the landscape, the soil and weather, and our expertise in growing a particular crop or rearing livestock gained over generations. Your clients can travel the length and breadth of Scotland and no two farm experiences will be the same. A great opportunity to try out as many as your clients can.
